

New website for the MAN Group

Munich, Jan. 17, 2005

The MAN Group is beginning 2005 by presenting a more modern, informative and user-friendly image on its www.man.de (www.man-group.com) website. Light, well-structured and with some illustrated pages, it entices visitors to surf through the world of MAN.

The latest news from MAN Group companies now appears on the homepage. Selected topical information can be found under the heading "Specials". This is currently presenting the MAN image campaign, including the TV spot. Clearly visible buttons provide direct access to the internet sites offered by MAN's operating subsidiaries. The homepage also offers a short profile of the MAN Group, whereby more in-depth information can be found under the heading "Portrait".

Homepages dedicated to the "Press" and "Investor Relations" offer a quick overview of the information available on MAN. Under "Press" (www.man.de/press), visitors to the website will find the latest press releases, current publications and a photo database, while the newest ad hoc announcements, quarterly financial results and information on MAN shares can be accessed under "Investor Relations" (www.man.de/investors), including analysts' comments rated by a neutral service-provider. The share information offering has been significantly extended. New features include a stock-market dictionary with 1,100 financial terms, additional investor services being offered in the form of a portfolio manager and dividend calculator.

Under each heading, a special information box provides details of relevant links, services, downloads and contacts. A clear menu structure provides for easy orientation throughout the site.
